Cueva Peter in Los Carriones

Cueva Peter is a charming little cave house on the edge of the beautiful hamlet of Los Carriones. The cave has an open plan living room/dining room/kitchen, 2 double bedrooms and a bathroom. There is a delightful front patio and garden with views of the dramatic Badlands.

The property is on a cul de sac with very few neighbours. It is the last house at the end of a quiet country road, with a neighbouring garage and unreformed caves beyond it. The traditional villages Castillejar and Benamaurel are under 10 minutes drive. There is a beautiful, huge community summer swimming pool, a 5 minute drive.

This cave is nicely positioned at the end of the road so it feels private. The patio/garden is fenced and gated. There is a covered section of the patio with a sitting area and storage closet. The patio pathway and outer walls are beautifully inlaid with natural stone.

The entire cave is carefully finished using quality, simple design. The entrance features a split barn door and an almond burner in the living room. The living room is bright and spacious with two large front windows. The bespoke kitchen is beautifully built, with a full length hand-crafted kitchen bar, wooden stools and beautiful wood cabinetry and tile countertops. Along the cave walls are rock shelves dug into the rock walls. The bathroom is nicely finished with earth tone tiles. The two double bedrooms are simple cave rooms with traditional, quality wood doors. From the back bedroom doorway you can see the sunlight coming in the front windows of the cave.

This property has been renovated with a quality build. There is also room to build further into the mountain if you
